JAP RESISTANCE CRACKS ON TWO FRONTS

JAP BALLOON BOMBS FALL IN U.S.

JAP TERROR WEAPONS, balloon-borne bombs, according to a joint Army-Navy statement, have been falling sporadically in the western U.S. for the "last several months." The balloons, to which small bombs are attached, cannot be guided by the launchers but are set free in wind currents by the Japs in the hope that they will fall in the U.S. The chart above illustrates a possible method of launching—from submarines—and the manner in which air currents have carried the balloons to land where they have exploded, up to the present, in unsettled areas. The Army-Navy statement says the weapons "should not be viewed with alarm," adding that "the possibility of a hit in any specific area is remote." In photo (bottom) Maj. J. F. Boigiano, Capt. W. B. Stannard and FBI agent W. G. Banister examine parts of the base of a Jap paper balloon that landed somewhere in Montana. (International Soundphoto)

Prosecutor Of Hitler Gets Office

Only Man Who Ever Jailed Nazi Leader Returns To Political Job

STARNBERG, GERMANY, May 25—The only man who ever succeeded in sending Adolf Hitler to prison was back in political office today after 12 years of virtual exile.

He is wizened, 70-year-old Martin Dresser, prosecutor who helped arrest Hitler after the Munich beer hall putsch in 1923 and obtained sentences up to five years for the Nazi leader and several of his followers.

Dresser was appointed yesterday as provisional lanasrat (county commissioner) of the Starnberg district, a 150 square mile area with some 50 towns and villages southwest of Munich.

His appointment had been urgently recommended to Capt. Robert Pasley, Ames, Ia., of the Allied military government by a committee representing the residents.

Big 3 May Meet In August

BRITISH SEE NO MEETING UNTIL AFTER ELECTION

Washington Predictions For June Conference Are Discounted In London

CHURCHILL WILL BE BUSY

Prime Minister Could Make No Commitments Until Ballots Counted

LONDON, May 25—British quarters inclined to the belief today that the big three conference will be held sometime in August despite optimistic Washington predictions it might take place as early as June.

Joseph E. Davies, President Truman's special envoy, was expected to arrive in London today to open conversations with Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in connection with the proposed meeting.

Their discussions were expected to play an important part in fixing the time and place of the meeting of President Truman, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin.

The Times' diplomatic correspondent said that it was not known under what instructions Davies was coming to London.

But the problems facing the Allied leaders are so manifest that the President's desire for a fresh coordinating link with the British and Russians at this critical stage is both understood and welcomed.

There was little belief here that the three leaders will get together until Britain's general election has been settled. The election is scheduled for July 5 but final results, including a count of absentee ballots from soldiers overseas, will not be known for another three weeks.

Only matters of the most extreme urgency would take Churchill and Eden, leaders of the conservative party, from Britain during the election campaign.

And Mr. Truman and Stalin hardly could be expected to visit (Continued on Page Two)

WAR LOAN DRIVE LAGS; 'E' BOND SALES $35,962

The Seventh War Loan Drive in Pickaway county is going much too slowly, the county war finance committee reports.

The 'E' bond sales up to Thursday had totaled only $35,962.50 of the county's quota of $405,000. There may have been more bonds sold than the figure indicates, Clark Will, county chairman said, but the number of bonds that have been actually cleared has been far behind the committee's expectations.

"There seems to be a lack of interest," Mr. Will said, "on the part of the people who are under the impression that the war is about over. The job, he said, is only half done. We have to finish it and it takes money to do it."

Other than series "E" bond sales have totaled $68,400 of the quota of $323,000.

Rural solicitors have not been able to make a very good showing because of the weather but the war will continue regardless of the weather and it will take a lot of money to continue it, he said.

There are several inducements offered to bolster the sale of bonds to individuals. The Junior Chamber of Commerce has offered free tickets to the show "Here is your Infantry" to be here June 26. The Grand Theater has offered 600 free tickets to the War Bond Premier show "Flame of the Barbary Coast" to be shown in Circleville June 5. The tickets will be given to the first 600 series "E" War Bond purchasers.

Bonds are offered for sale at all banks, Post Office, Circleville theaters, and many of the stores in the city, besides from solicitors who are to contact every home in Circleville and the county.

U.S. Axis War Criminal Prosecutor In London; Himmler Evades Trial

LONDON, May 25—Supreme Court Justice Robert Jackson, chief American prosecutor of Axis war criminals, and his staff have arrived in Britain for first-hand investigations, it was revealed today.

They will confer with the United Nations war crimes commission in London and later may visit Germany itself.

Jackson or members of his staff also may participate in the preliminary questioning of Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt and other accused war criminals now being held in England pending trial.

The arrival of the American delegation was disclosed as orders went out to Allied occupation troops in Germany to concentrate on finding former German foreign minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, sole top Nazi cabinet member still at large.

Heinrich Himmler, most hated of all Nazis with the possible exception of Hitler himself, was written off the list Wednesday night. He swallowed poison while in British custody.

The search for Ribbentrop was centered chiefly in southern Ger-

ONLY ONE NAZI LEADER BELIEVED STILL AT LARGE

By United Press
Here is what has happened to some of Germany's top war criminals:

Adolf Hitler—reported dead in Berlin.

Heinrich Himmler, chief of the gestapo—committed suicide while in British custody.

Paul Joseph Goebbels, propaganda minister—reported dead in Berlin.

Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering—in Allied custody.

Joachim von Ribbentrop, foreign minister—at large.

Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, self-proclaimed successor to Hitler as fuhrer—in Allied custody.

Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, supreme commander of the German armed forces—in Allied custody.

Admiral Gen. Hans Georg von Friedeburg, commander of the German navy—committed suicide while in Allied custody.

many and western Austria, where so many other Nazi bigwigs have been unearthed.

The vast majority of the German foreign office personnel already taken into custody were found in that area and Ribbentrop's country estate was situated on Lake Fuschl, Austria, about 20 miles by road east of Salzburg.

Moreover, Ribbentrop's wife was reported to have sought refuge in Switzerland only about a month ago.

The best information available was that Ribbentrop was in Berlin as late as April 23. He then presumably flew south by plane.

There remained a possibility, however, that he may have motored west or north and now is mingling among other Germans in Allied-occupied territory in disguise.

It also was possible that he may have committed suicide in Berlin, either separately or with Hitler.

In addition to being foreign minister, Ribbentrop was a member of the secret Nazi cabinet council (Continued on Page Two)

GUARD WATCHED HIMMLER DIE

British Officer Relates How Nazi Big Shot Took His Own Life

(Editors Note: Sgt. Maj. Edward Austin of the British second army was one of the guards in the room at Luebenberg where Heinrich Himmler, Nazi gestapo chief, swallowed poison Wednesday night. His eye-witness story of Himmler's last minutes was recorded and broadcast by the BBC.)

LUEBENBERG, GERMANY, May 23—He came into the room dressed in an army shirt, a pair of underpants and with a blanket wrapped around him.

I immediately recognized him as Himmler.

Speaking to him in German, I pointed to an empty couch and said:

"That's your bed. Get onto it!"

He looked at me and then at an interpreter and said, "He doesn't know who I am."

I said, "yes, I do. You are Himmler. But that still is your bed. Get undressed."

He tried to stare me out, but I stared at him and eventually he (Continued on Page Two)

HITLER HAD NO REAL FRIENDS SECRETARY SAYS

BERCHTESGADEN, May 25—Adolf Hitler's personal secretary said today the Fuehrer did not have a real friend in the world outside of his blonde sweetheart, Eva Braun.

The secretary, Christa Schroeder, said none of Hitler's henchmen such as Hermann Goering or Heinrich Himmler could be classed as his personal friends. He never used the intimate form for you, "du," in speaking to them, and they always addressed him as "Mein Fuehrer."

Fraulein Schroeder, a husky woman with coarse features, reddish complexion, and black hair, was Hitler's number one private secretary throughout the war. She admired him personally, although she conceded, "he had his weaknesses."

The secretary said that Hitler probably had more affection for Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels and his family than anybody apart from Eva. He also liked Benito Mussolini, because he felt Duce was the only other person holding a position similar to his own.

TRUMAN SEEKS TO CENTRALIZE RESPONSIBILITY

President Is Opposed To Overlapping Power Of Many Agencies

CONGRESS MAY BALK

Solons Expected To Be Slow To Grant More Authority To Chief Executive

WASHINGTON, May 25—President Truman wants to reshuffle the federal government in such a way as to centralize responsibility in as few officials as possible.

That was seen today as the major purpose behind his request to congress yesterday for continuing authority to reorganize the executive branch.

Congressional reaction was one of agreement in principle. It looked doubtful, however, that congress would grant powers as broad as Mr. Truman wanted or as speedily as he would like to have them.

The first thing congress wanted was more details on exactly what the President has in mind.

The record of his years as chairman of the senate's special war investigating committee indicates that centralization of responsibility and elimination of overlapping functions is his primary aim.

As chairman of the special committee investigating flaws and delays in the war production program Mr. Truman frequently criticized overlapping and duplication in government functions. He charged that was the cause of many of the delays.

Repeatedly he recommended that authority be centralized in as few officials as possible and that each of them be solely responsible for the job to which he was assigned.

Mr. Truman intends to pursue the same policy in connection with There are strong indications that since succeeding to the presidency (Continued on Page Two)

ALLIES TO KEEP CLOSE CONTROL ON GERMAN NEWS

PARIS, May 25—Supreme headquarters announced today that the Allies will exercise close control over news published in Germany until the purge of Nazi and militaristic influences is complete.

A SHAEF spokesman revealed that an "Allied Press Service" will be established in the United Kingdom to produce all the world news selected for the German press. It will be headed by James T. Hart, New York newspaperman, and include personnel from the OWI and political intelligence department of the British foreign office.

Information control teams will work with individual newspapers, exercising strict censorship of local news, according to the spokesman, Brig. Gen. R. A. McClure, chief of the psychological warfare division of SHAEF.

How Yanks Hit Japs

AMERICAN FLIERS are attacking installations in Japan from airfields on Okinawa, according to Vice Admiral Richmond Turner, although the campaign to capture the island (closeup, bottom) has not been completed as yet. Hundreds of planes, the admiral states, take off each day from airfields in our possession to assault the Japs. The planes can quickly cover the distance—approximately 400 miles—from their bases to a number of key points on the Nipponese mainland. Map at top shows relationship of Okinawa to Japan. AUTO MAKERS READY TO GO

WPB Restrictions May Keep Cars From Reaching Demanding Public

DETROIT, May 25—Automobile makers answered the government bugle in the new-car derby today, eager to race, but discouraged by the handicaps and the empty grandstands.

The war production board's long-awaited authorization of passenger-car production beginning July 1 was greeted in official industrial circles as offering "no substantial improvement" for either the industry or the car-hungry public.

"This is a piece of paper," said George Romney, managing director of the automotive council for war production—an industry-wide agency, "it doesn't provide release from the bonds of government restrictions and it won't put (Continued on Page Two)

WOMEN'S GROUPS SELL POPPIES HERE SATURDAY

Poppies will be offered for sale throughout Circleville on Saturday. The poppies are to be sold by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary and the American Legion Auxiliary.

American Legion Auxiliary poppies will be sold by the Circleville Girl Scouts. "Buddy" poppies will be sold by the V. F. W. women.

The sale of poppies contributes to the funds of both veterans organizations for the rehabilitation and relief of veterans, their dependents and survivors. Poppy sales have been an annual pre-Memorial Day feature since 1922.

The poppies are made by the disabled veterans of all wars from the materials that are furnished them by the veterans' organizations.

YANKS MOPPING UP AT IPO DAM AND MINDANAO

Nip Suicide Units Strike On Okinawa With Surprise Landing

TOKYO BOMBED AGAIN

U. S. Naval Task Force Shells Installations On Paramushiro

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, May 25—A very large force of superfortresses dumped more thousands of tons of incendiary bombs on Tokyo today in a followup of previous attacks which had left much of the capital in ruins.

By United Press

Organized Japanese resistance cracked in southeast Okinawa and on two more fronts—Mindanao and the Ipo dam area northeast of Manila—in the Philippines today. Radio Tokyo predicted American troops soon would attempt a landing on Amami island, 115 miles northeast of Okinawa and 185 miles south of Japan.

Japanese air-borne suicide units struck back on Okinawa, radio Tokyo said, with a surprise landing on two American-held airbases. They blew up aircraft, munitions depots and other installations. Tokyo said.

A Chinese military spokesman announced that the Japanese have withdrawn from more divisions from central China. Chinese forces following up the withdrawal reentered Hwaiyuanchen, 50 miles northwest of the former American air base at Luchoo.

British forces in southern Burma reached the important inland port of Bassein west of Rangoon and found it abandoned by the enemy. The main jetties of the port had been destroyed, but the smaller ones were in fair condition.

American planes again were over devastated Tokyo today, Japanese broadcasts said 60 Mustang fighters and a small group of superfortresses attacked the Tokyo-Yokohama area for 50 minutes at mid-day.

North of Japan, a U. S. naval task force was revealed to have shelled Japanese installations on the east coast of Paramushiro in the fog-shrouded Kurile islands for a half hour at dusk May 20. Fires and explosions were observed.

No organized Japanese defenses were found below Yonabaru, the dispatch said. West of the port, however, the American drive stalled temporarily under heavy Japanese fire.

Mud and tough resistance also mired American forces frontally attacking the inland stronghold of Shuri and west coast port of Naha, capital of Okinawa. However, the Americans have thrown two bridges across the Asato river in Naha and were building strength for a climactic attack.

HODGES HEADS FOR WASHINGTON AFTER BIG DAY

ATLANTA, Ga., May 25—General Courtney H. Hodges, Georgia-born commander of the U. S. 1st Army, who yesterday was accorded the greatest homecoming in the state's history, today was to leave for Washington for War department conferences.

Following his arrival in Atlanta, a 10-mile parade in which almost half a million Georgians participated, and official greetings by high state, city and military officials, General Hodges and his party last night were hailed by a "welcome home" crowd of 5,000 at the city auditorium.

Hodges gravely declared that victory in Europe was "but a milestone in a campaign to defeat the aggressor nations and achieve a lasting peace."

He spoke soberly of the task still ahead and warned that "only victory in the Pacific can end our war effort, and until that time the military forces and American civilians must not relax."

Other American forces in central Luzon broke enemy resistance in the Ipo dam area north-east of Manila and made further progress east of the capital.

A Chinese spokesman said the Japanese had been withdrawing their troops from the Central Chinese provinces of Hunan, Honan and Kwangsi for the past month.

He expected the withdrawals to continue from areas which the enemy command apparently decided would be impractical and overcostly to defend. Some of the troops were sent northwest to Manchuria and others to Shanghai and other east coast ports.

Radio Tokyo said "practically no damage" was caused in today's American raid on the Tokyo-Yokohama area. If there actually was a raid, the American planes probably primarily were interested in obtaining photographs of damage caused in yesterday's record 4,500-ton B-29 fire attack.

AUTO MAKERS READY TO GO

Nevertheless, every major plant announced readiness to restore output of passenger cars "as swiftly as possible" under the WPB's quota of 200,000 for the remainder of 1945 and 2,000,000 within the next 14 months.

Ford Motor company, powerful "lone-wolf" of the industry, said it hoped to be in production within 60 to 90 days. Hudson motor car company expected to get out its new models "about as fast as any plant," emphasizing an advantage in owning its own body division. The Packard "face-lifted" Clipper will be in production by October, according to a company spokesman. General Motors, a high official told the United Press, doesn't "want to come second to anybody."

All companies agreed that they had anticipated the government action by many weeks and already had highly-trained squads of skilled engineers, pattern-makers, tool makers and die planners busy with the reconversion solutions.

But ranged against this preparation and hope was WPB Chairman J. A. Krug's warning that passenger-car production was contingent on:

1. Availability of materials on the open market, without government priorities assistance.
2. No interference with existing facilities for war production.
3. A quota system based on ability to produce, independent of government aid and without special concern for equitable proportion along pre-war levels.
4. Strict rationing of car distribution at least until early 1946.

WILLIAM ESTEP TRIAL ON IN COMMON PLEAS COURT

Trial of William Estep on charges of driving while intoxicated continued in common pleas court Friday. He had been arrested December 22, 1944. A jury of nine women and three men were impaneled to decide the case which opened Thursday morning.

Members of the jury are: Mrs. Thelma Noecker, Mrs. Matilda Heffner, Mrs. Berman Calvert, Grace McCoy, Mrs. Mary Fisher, Maud Hedges, Ethel Kreider, Mrs. Fairy Brown, Elizabeth Henderson, Harvey Waldelich, Donald Morgan and Oscar Snyder.

BIG 4 READY TO REJECT DEMAND

Technical experts of the big four have agreed on that interpretation of the voting formula. The four delegations are expected to approve it today with the possibility that their "answer" to the little powers will be ready by tonight.

The major question now is whether the little powers, rebuffed in their request for answers to their 22 questions, will continue to press their demands and force showdown votes in committee and commission.

The big powers are prepared for that. They were reported confident of being able to muster enough votes to beat down any amendments designed to whittle away their veto power. Amendments would require a 2/3 vote for passage—23 votes if all the 49 nations were present and voted.

Cmdr. Harold E. Stassen, U. S. delegate, admitted late last night that this was the last "tough nut" the world security conference has to crack. Prospects were that it might not be disposed of before early next week.

But Stassen also revealed that "rapid and significant strides of progress" are being made on all other issues.

He predicted that solution of the trusteeship issue "will keep bright the objective of the advancement of the peoples concerned."

His statement was made as a committee approved two more sections of the trusteeship plan after a hectic three-hour session. The committee first defeated, 25 to 5, an Egyptian amendment intended, in effect, to reaffirm existing pledges for a free Palestine. Stassen argued that it was unnecessary because the present version already insured existing rights dependent peoples and that more precise details could be worked out later. Arabia, Egypt, Lebanon, Syria and Iraq were the five supporters of the amendment.

Other late developments: 1. John Foster Dulles, representing the United States, served notice in a conference committee that this country will insist upon a strong clause in the charter prohibiting interference by the new league in the domestic affairs of member states. He made it plain that U. S. senate approval of the charter depended upon such a clause.

2. Sharp debate and the closest vote of the conference occurred in another committee which is trying to decide whether the assembly should be allowed to submit general conventions to member states for approval.

The vote was 25 to 13 in favor of this amendment, but it was defeated because 26 "ayes" were required under the 2/3 rule. The roll call provided the first almost clear-cut test of little vs. big power strength. France bolted the big powers but those joining the big four against the amendment were White Russia, the Ukraine, Czechoslovakia, Honduras, Nicaragua, Norway, Turkey, South Africa and Yugoslavia.

3. The big powers lined up solidly against attempts to expand the provision for special international air force contingents to include other military forces as well. The charter provides that air forces shall be held "immediately available" for use. The members would merely "undertake" to make other forces available to the council. A vote on this has been deferred.

4. The organization membership committee decided to limit the term of office of the secretary-general to three years with provision for reelection.

5. Soviet Russia came up with a surprise proposal that the number of deputy secretary-generals be increased from four to five.

6. The legal problems committee adopted two clauses designed to prevent any future secret treaties or agreements. They would require registration and publication of treaties and agreements and prohibit any nation from invoking such before the world organization if they are not registered.

7. The little powers faced strong opposition to their efforts to increase the recommending powers of the assembly in the committee on political and security functions.

8. The United States suffered its first major defeat when it finally had to agree to let the section on the social and economic council retain as an objective the promotion of "full employment."

After two days of efforts to eliminate the phrase, the United States withdrew its objections on condition it could state its interpretation of it in the commission minutes.

The Swiss federal council at Bern ordered the expulsion of 25 known Nazis, mostly officials of the former German legation and consulates. Some 250 other Nazis and a number of Italian fascists also were under investigation and face expulsion.

A Vatican radio broadcast revealed that Nicholas Horthy, Jr., son of the former Hungarian regent, and Nicholas von Kallay, former premier of Hungary, were among 11 prominent Hungarians who had been released from imprisonment in Germany and were in American custody on the island of Capri.

BEN B. JOHNSON LIBERATED FROM NAZI POW CAMP

Staff Sgt. Ben B. Johnson has been freed from a German prison camp, it was revealed Friday.

A telegram, sent through the Red Cross, informed his father, Harry Johnson, West Mill street, that he had been freed.

Sgt. Johnson, radio operator on a B-17, has been a prisoner since August 16, 1942, when his plane was shot down over France. He went overseas June 5, 1942, and was on his 13th mission, when he was captured.

In March the Johnsons received a letter, dated in November. This was the last word received from him.

AUTOS COLLIDE
Automobiles driven by Thomas W. Brown, 74, 122 West Union street, and Mrs. Pearl Harrison, 524 East Franklin street, collided at 7:45 p. m. Thursday at Franklin and Mingo streets. Left fenders on both cars were damaged. Brown was arrested on charges of running a stop sign, according to the police report. He was released on $3 bond to appear in Mayor Ben H. Gordon's court May 29 to plead to the charges.

A doctor and a colonel then came into the room and started to carry out a routine inspection looking for the poison which we suspected he had on him.

We looked between his clothes, all over his body, under his arms, in his ears, behind his ears and in his hair.

At last, we asked Himmler to open his mouth. He opened his mouth and rolled his tongue around his teeth.

The doctor wasn't satisfied. He asked him to come near to the light and open his mouth.

The doctor put two fingers in his mouth and took a good look inside.

Then Himmler clamped down his jaws on the doctor's fingers and crushed a phial which he had held in his mouth for hours.

The colonel and I instinctively jumped to him. The doctor hauled him onto the sofa and tried to make him spit out the poison. The colonel and I held him.

After efforts lasting a quarter of an hour during which we tried all methods of artificial respiration, he died.

Prosecutor Of Hitler Gets Office

He denied the often-told story that Hitler was pulled from a clothes closet or was dressed in women's clothing when arrested. He said he arrested Hitler personally at the residence of Ernst Hanfstaengel, a Munich art dealer.

He said Hitler made no effort to hide but that as he was led to jail he shouted and screamed and denounced the Weimar government "in what later became world-known as the Hitler fashion."

Dresser said he arrested Hermann Goering a few days later but made the mistake of allowing him liberty pending the trial. He said Goering broke his promise to appear and fled to Sweden.

The three weeks trial was a farce, Dresser said, with Munich, then Germany's hotbed of unrest and radicalism, strongly sympathetic toward the defendants.

Hitler, whom he described as "unfettered, unstable but magnetically emotional," strutted confidently throughout the trial.

Davarian Justice Minister Franz Guertner, "already under the Hitler spell," refused Dresser's request to demand the death penalty which was permissible. He said Guertner persuaded the four judges to let Hitler off with a five year sentence and the others with proportionately light punishment.

Dresser said Hitler sneered as the sentences were read and declared "I'll never serve five years in any prison cell."

Hitler was released after 13 months during which he wrote the first draft of "Mein Kampf."

Guertner became the first Nazi reichminister of justice.

The general election has seized British public interest almost to the exclusion of the possibility of the United States in early October the United States in early October before a presidential election.

Conservative newspapers say Churchill will stamp the campaign during the election campaign and will make at least one major radio speech. The campaign will dominate his life until July 5, though he will continue to devote much private attention to international questions.

It also is improbable that Churchill would attend any international conference during the three-week period between July 5 and the announcements of the final results.

Any commitments Churchill might make in that period would be of uncertain value because he might be out of office before they could be carried out.

Churchill, meantime, was busy constructing the cabinet which will serve with him pending the election.

GOV. LAUSCHE PROCLAIMS JUNE AS DAIRY MONTH

COLUMBUS, May 25—Governor Frank J. Lausche has signed an official proclamation setting June as Dairy Month in Ohio and urging the citizens of the state to "publicly recognize the efforts of our Ohio dairy farmers and dairy processors as being requisite to total victory in the fight for freedom and our way of life."

The celebration in Ohio will be part of a nation-wide observance of Dairy Month, which is annually set for June, when milk production is at its peak. This year, the observance will center about the role of the dairy industry in meeting essential food needs of the armed forces and the home front.

In his proclamation, the governor points out that "the dairy cow and her products supply almost one-third of the agricultural wealth of the state, making farm income from dairying rate first among agricultural enterprises in Ohio."

"Dairy products," the official proclamation says, "have high nutritional value and form the best foundation for adequate diets, helping to fill the gaps caused by shortages of certain other foods."

The state in 1944 produced many more millions of pounds of Cheddar (American type) cheese, evaporated milk, and powdered milk than it did in 1941, the director said, and all of this increase in production resulted from high demands for concentrated dairy foods by the armed forces and our Allies.

FARM YOUTHS ARE SPEAKERS AT ROTARY CLUB

K. L. Holtrey, vocational agriculture teacher at Walnut township school brought four of his pupils to the Rotary Club Thursday luncheon meeting in the Pickaway Arms restaurant. The four students gave talks on farming and farm projects.

Pat LaRue spoke of the future farmers of America. Bob Smith spoke about his project. Charles Hines talked about the fairs and the awards at the fairs. Maynard Marshall told of the program projects at Walnut township school.

LaRue told how the membership in the Future Farmers of America is attained. It is a classification system that selects members who show unusual merit in their farming projects.

Hines told how hard the boys work to win trophies and cups at the fairs. Two cups were won by boys from Walnut township at the Pickaway county Junior Fair last year.

Smith told the Rotarians that the best farmer raises the best and the most crops with the least cost and then feeds it to his stock. He won two trophies at the Franklin county fair last year.

Marshall stated there were 30 boys at Walnut township school and they had a total of 100 projects under way at the present time. They experiment with their projects and they repair farm machinery.

T/Sgt. Jack White, U. S. A. A. F., a German prisoner for ten months, was a Rotary visitor.

MARINES BLAST JAPS FROM OKINAWA CAVE HIDEOUTS

WITH TRIGGER FINGERS TENSE, a group of Leathernecks cover the entrance of a cave on Okinawa where they had just exploded a charge to drive out Japs holed up in it. Such enemy positions as this formed a "Little Siegfried Line" before Naha and slowed the American advance on the capital city. The fight for that objective is now being waged with the utmost savagery. Marine Corps photo.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

MARY: "Jim, didn't you say you wanted to ask the Judge something about grain, the next time you saw him?"

JIM: "That's right, I did, Mary. Is it true, Judge, that distillers recover part of the grain they use in making war-alcohol?"

OLD JUDGE: "That's absolutely true, Jim. Wherever the government has permitted distillers to purchase the equipment necessary to reprocess the used grain, at least 50% of the feed value (25% by weight) of the whole grain is recovered. It comes back to farms like yours in the form of premium-quality livestock feed... rich in vitamins B₁ and B₂."

JIM: "Is the same thing true when distillers are permitted to make whiskey, Judge?"

OLD JUDGE: "Yes, every bit as true, Jim."

BACK TO CIVILIZATION

GENERAL Ike and his staff, with Germany on their hands, go quietly along doing one thing after another to bring the proud Nazi nation into a status that makes sense. And one of the neatest bits of re-adjustment has been the limiting of the top Nazis to $30 a month for living expenses. It might be rather tough on the stout Hermann Goering, with his well known love of good living. By this time, perhaps, he is already beginning to waste away. But he can probably stand the loss of 100 pounds or so, and may find it good for his figure, if not his temper.

Even at that rate, Goering and the other gangsters are getting more than they deserve. When it is recalled how they starved, tortured and killed so many thousands and better men than themselves, perhaps a natural impulse rises up in the souls of normal and decent human beings to pay them back in their own coin—to torture the torturers and kill the killers. But that is a thing which civilized avengers cannot bring themselves to do, however richly the Nazi savages deserve it. In order to restore civilization in the dark places it is necessary for the restorers, even while administering necessary punishment, to remain civilized themselves.

DEFENSE PLANTS

WHEN a war plant in Cleveland was opened to public view for the first time, last Sunday, 55,000 people swarmed in to see it. The buildings and machinery covered 400 acres. They went everywhere and saw everything, and marveled at the immense power and variety of the weapons and the skill of the men who made them. It was such armies of industry, with their appropriate tools, that made the things that enabled the men using them to win the European war, and are now enabling them to win the Japanese war. Men and tools and fighting materials are inseparable.

It is good for civilians to acquaint themselves, as well as they can with every possible phase of the war, so that they may understand better the labors and problems of the fighting men. In this way all who are engaged in the war come closer, in spirit and effort, to constituting one great team.

One thing that may be expected from now on: reports from excited people with quick imaginations who saw a suspicious-looking character in an unlikely place, and are sure it is Hitler.

Sure, this is a free country, but a lot of people want some one to control the sugar crisis.

Our next job, after winning the war, will be paying the war debts.

Tunney Leaves Navy, Has Eye on Politics
Ex-Heavy Champion Is Not Sure About Future

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—Commander Gene Tunney, U. S. N. R., big, handsome Gene, gifted with brains and flat and terrific enthusiasm, laid away his fine navy blue suits the other day. He looked affectionately at their gold stripes and brass buttons. He heaved a proud sigh or two. Packed down the mothballs on the mementoes of his four and a half years' service with Uncle Sam. Gave a few sharp looks in the mirror of his Stamford, Conn., home. The reflection showed an almost forgotten self in civilian tweeds. Then he stepped forth to look around in the world he left behind when he volunteered to help with the war effort in whatever way the Navy thought he could help best.

"And what will you be doing now?" the friends and neighbors who Connecticut way are asking today of the former heavyweight champion of the world.

Commander Tunney is quite likely answering the question this way:
"Well, I don't quite know. I'm going to take two months to make up my mind. But I tell you what I would really like to do—some day. I'd like to get into politics. I would like to run for Congress from Connecticut—some day."

Commander Tunney—former Commander Tunney it is from this day on—should make an excellent legislator. He is a good speaker. Indeed he has been successful at everything he turned his wits to. His success at writing surprised his sports loving public. Several books and many pertinent magazine articles have appeared under his signature. Not only appeared under his signature, but were written by Commander Tunney himself. He has had no ghost writers. Not even, although he has been accused of employing such first aids to many public figures.

UP AND DOWN BROADWAY

By JACK GAVER
(Subbing for Mallon)

NEW YORK, May 25—This is Republic pictures' year to howl. Ten years old and kicking dust in the faces of the Hollywood experts who scoffed at movie serials and singing cowboys.

Most of the dust-kicking comes from the feet of Herbert J. Yates, who's back in Hollywood now ready to inaugurate Sunday an official period of celebration to commemorate the fact that the $8,000,000 he laid on the line a decade ago didn't go down the drain.

Yates, who is 65 years old, is this kind of a fellow. He had a reunion with his three grown sons in Hollywood a short time ago—two of them are Army captains—and they celebrated with a golf match. The sons shot 82, 81 and 79. The "old man" made it in 78. His passion is ice-skating and there is a rink in the Republic plant where he can indulge in this sport as he pleases.

"I think I'm the world's most successful failure," he said before returning to the west coast. "I have made more mistakes than anybody else I know of but in between those mistakes I have been a little lucky."

There is no Hollywood big shot less known to the general public than Yates. Yet he has been in the picture business for more than 30 years. He retired in his early thirties with a fortune made as a tobacco company executive but it wasn't long before he loaned the late Fatty Arbuckle, whom he met at a luncheon at Rector's about $75,000 to finance the making of some two-reel comedies. That was in 1913 when no banker in his right mind would lend a dime for picture making. Within the year Yates had his money back and $150,000 besides.

That put him into the film business for good. He organized Consolidated Film Industries, Inc., which still processes much of the film made by all the studios. In the early days, before the companies became the giants they are today, he financed from time to time almost every outfit but the old William Fox company. In 1934 four small companies were "into him" for $3,000,000 and he made them consolidate as Republic pictures as the only way of getting his money back.

This showed no signs of working and in 1935 he took over the outfit, put in another $5,000,000 and went to work. The singing cowboy films (Gene Autry; he's got Roy Rogers now) and serials, which were a dead issue at the time, put Republic in the black despite the scoffers in movietown. Now Republic is in the big-time with prominent directors, a growing list of good players and a current schedule that calls for $23,000,000 to be spent on productions. This isn't far behind the budgets of the major firms.

And just as a sideline, an outgrowth of buying up a few phonograph record companies years ago, Yates owns one of the country's largest plastic plants at Scranton, Pa.

Harry Bloomfield has produced on Broadway a play by Elsa Shelley called "Foxhole in the Parlor." Miss Shelley is the former actress whose "Pick-up Girl" was a moderate success last year.

"Foxhole in the Parlor" is concerned with the soldiers who come back as psycho-neurotic cases and with a deep feeling that they must do something to prevent another such thing.

New Treatment For Virus Pneumonia

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THERE ARE all kinds of pneumonias. Pneumonia means inflammation of the lung. The inflammation may be produced by infection with many different kinds of germs as well as viruses. One kind of pneumonia which has only been described in recent years is known as atypical pneumonia or virus pneumonia. It is thought that this condition is due to a virus, that is, an organism so small that it can pass through the openings of a porcelain filter.

Lasting Fever

Virus pneumonia is like influenza in its symptoms and course. At first there is fever, which varies from 100 to 103 degrees but lasts for several days. This is accompanied by prostration, sweating and coughing. These symptoms clear up and there is a long recovery period during which the patient is weak and usually must remain in bed. There is a tendency for the symptoms to recur.

In examination of these patients, there are very few findings. This happens because the areas of the lung which are affected are small and are often deep in the lung structure and not near the surface. Many times the patient's breathing is slow and wheezing. Coughing occurs in attacks and is rattling. An X-ray examination of the chest is often helpful in making a diagnosis. There usually is a great deal of inflammation of the windpipe or trachea, and the larger tubes in the lungs known as the bronchi. This disorder often resembles asthmatic bronchitis in the wheezing and noisy breathing which it produces.

Sulfonamide Drugs

Virus pneumonia has been treated with the sulfonamide drugs as well as with penicillin, but it would not appear that they have had any great effect on it. Doctor Archie M. Roberts of California has treated a large number of patients with the drug known as aminophylline. He found that it served to bring about a rapid disappearance of the inflamed areas in the lungs and in more than 90 per cent of the patients there was quick relief from cough, pain in the chest, and fever.

In a few of the patients the drug caused irritation of the stomach with some discomfort and burning or vomiting. The aminophylline was given by mouth in tablets at intervals of three to six hours. In a few patients the drug was given by injection into a vein.

It would appear that the aminophylline brought relief because of its effect in relaxing the spasm of the bronchi and collapsed areas in the lung tissue. In this way, it made breathing easier and thus served to make the patients more comfortable. It did not have any direct effect on the infection itself.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

Gail heard a voice, "Gail, darling." She turned around dazedly. Steve was beside the policeman; Steve had spoken to her. His face was streaked with dirt, there was a nasty cut on his right arm, his blue suit was in shreds.

"And this is the sort of thing the English have been taking for months," she said. "Buildings in ruins, lives snuffed out—"

"This wasn't a bomb, darling, it was a careless workman."

"Where's everybody?" she whispered. "Father came down with the first ambulance," he said proudly. "He's near the gate, his nurses are with him. He's all right, the old boy."

Her throat was tight. She could barely speak. "What happened to the right wing?"

"The explosion caved in the walls and roof. A good many women were trapped there... I've got to get back." He left her and she pushed her way numbly through the crowds.

When she got to the gate, she saw a car drive up and stop. "Gail—Gail—" a girl's voice screamed.

She turned around. It was Lucienne, getting out of the car. Lucienne in her green suit, her going-away suit, a spray of orchids on her shoulder. Ralph was beside her, still in his morning coat, his striped trousers. "We just heard about it, when Lucienne was changing her dress," he shouted.

Dr. Kramer stripped off his hand-some coat. He rolled up the sleeves of his white shirt. "Where shall I go?" he asked.

"To the right wing," Gail answered. "Women are trapped—"

He moved away. "Ralph!" Lucienne cried. "Be careful, darling."

Gail thought bitterly: You needn't worry. Ralph always plays safe... As she followed him through the mob, she saw him move toward the one remaining wall of the right wing that teetered perilously. "Take it easy," a policeman ordered. "Don't go near that wall!"

Suddenly they heard a woman's scream, coming from the vicinity of that awaying wall. "Help!" she wailed. "Help!"

A fireman forced his way through the crowd, with Ralph close behind him. "Darling—" Lucienne cried wildly. "You'll get hurt!"

The last they saw were the handsomely tressed legs running toward the falling wall through thick smoke.

They were gathered around the bed at the Thayer Hospital. Howard Thayer, looking old and defeated, Agnes, holding a handkerchief to her eyes, Dr. Cassius McCormick, quiet, cold, but not so aloof. He had taken charge when Ralph was brought into the hospital and during a grueling three-hour stretch in the operating room, he had performed a miracle...

Gail, in a fresh white coat, was standing beside Lucienne.

The room was silent. All eyes were fixed on the figure in the narrow bed. Once Agnes broke into a stifled whimper, but Lucienne's gaze silenced her. Lucienne was as immobile as a wax figure in her pretty clothes...

Suddenly Kramer's swollen lips moved. Lucienne leaned over him. "Ralph," she whispered.

The heavy lips curved into a sudden smile. "Lily," Ralph said clearly. "Lily."

Gail felt her heart tighten in pity. He would live, yes, but all Lucienne's life she would remember that it was Lily he called for. Not his wife—but Lily Lanahan.

Lucienne was in her arms, crying out like a little girl, asking for comfort.

"He'll live, darling," murmured Gail. She held Lucienne close. And as Steve McCormick came toward her, she realized suddenly from where her strength came.

Steve. Dear, wonderful Steve!

It was Dr. McCormick's custom after any long operation to go to his own office, and sip sherry quietly while his nerves relaxed. This half hour was always sacred to him, not even Ralph Kramer had ever been allowed to disturb it.

He poured the sherry now, and stood looking at it absently. Three days had passed since the catastrophe at the Thayer-Jelke plant, and he had had almost no time away from the operating room.

His hand found the bell on his desk, rang it.

Miss Adams, his nurse, appeared. "Call my assistant," he said. "Right away."

Miss Adams went away, papeyed with curiosity. This was certainly breaking a precedent of years!

He was still standing at his desk, when Gail Benton came in. She was in her white operating gown and cap, the mask slipped down like a bib on her chest.

"You wanted me, Doctor McCormick?"

Gail had been his assistant for three days. She felt he'd only asked her to help out because of Ralph's accident. But she'd assisted in four operations, including today's.

Today's operation... Steve McCormick, the man she loved, had been the patient. And she had helped his father make a horribly wounded soldier whole again.

Doctor McCormick turned to her. "I'm not going to say anything. No recriminations, no suggestions, not even praise." He added softly, "You are too big for praise."

She said quietly, "Thank you." "And now I want to offer you something—"

She waited.

"The Hospital is short of doctors. We need a resident immediately. It is up to me to appoint him. Gail, you will take the job."

It was not a plea. It was an order.

When she didn't answer, he added brusquely, "Here, have a glass of sherry. Afterwards, you may go up to see that son of mine."

This time her tears spilled over. It was supper time, and Stephen's nurse had bathed his face and brushed his hair. "How do I look?" he grinned.

"It doesn't matter how you look," a gay voice from the doorway decided. "How do you feel?"

Gail was standing there. She held a cluster of roses in her hand, stiffly, like an old-fashioned bride.

"It isn't the sedative that has made me woozy," he said. "It's the sight of you, Doctor Benton."

She came over and sat by his side, and he put his lips to the palm of her hand.

After a long time, he said, "Why didn't you come to see me sooner?"

"I did, but you were asleep. So I got some flowers and then went back to my apartment for a change of clothes. Katie was giving Nina her supper. They got along fine."

Carman and Johnny Sermaline had both been killed in the explosion.

"How is Lucienne?" Steve asked. It would be months before Ralph was well, before the fractures healed.

"She's amazing, Steve. She's calm, and apparently happy, and she is entering training school next week to become a registered nurse."

The nurse brought a glass of fruit juice and Gail fed him through a glass sipper. When he was finished she said, "Has your father told you about my new job?"

"Yes. He told me this afternoon. But I told him it would have to be temporary, for two reasons."

"What's the first one?" she asked, quickly.

"His eyes grew dark. 'Darling, during the emergency you must stick to the hospital. It's your job and you'll want to do it. But when the war is over, when the doctors return—'"

"What can I do then?" she asked. "I'll never give up medicine!"

"Of course, you won't!" he said. "You shouldn't; but there will be so many important things for you to do. Do you remember, I once told you about a friend of mine, a refugee doctor? After the war, she wants to set up children's clinics all over Europe. She will need doctors like you, Gail—doctors who put the need of their patients above themselves."

"Oh, Steve, that sounds wonderful. I'll be with you," he said. "There'll be work for men and women alike."

After a while, she ventured, "Now for the second reason—"

His eyes twinkled. "I told father that after the war, he'd know you only in a personal relationship. As his daughter-in-law."

Gail leaned down and kissed him unashamedly. His right arm was in a cast. But his left was able to do the work of two.

One-Minute Test

1. Does an American woman lose her citizenship if she marries an alien?
2. What is a by-election?
3. Did any signers of the Declaration of Independence become president of the United States?

Hints on Etiquette

Read and improve your mind. Don't wait for time to read; do it in your odd moments. Reading also makes you a more interesting person to those you meet.

Words of Wisdom

How few are our real wants! How easy it is to satisfy them! Our imaginary ones are boundless and insatiable.

Today's Horoscope

If this is your birthday, you are very emotional, sensitive to praise and blame, and easily irked by failure and obstacles. You should strive to develop poise. Put concentration into your efforts. Seek a life partner who is as demonstrative as yourself. Do not boast of your prowess or you might arouse envy. Take things easy, because under the adverse Saturn influences, you might add to any possible difficulty if you are too determined to plunge right ahead regardless of everything.

One-Minute Test Answers

1. No, she does not.
2. An election held between regular elections, usually to fill a vacancy.
3. Two — George Washington and James Madison.

"The Authority on Authorities"

LOGIC TO PLACE CARDS

"IF HE HAD held that card, he would have made a bid." That kind of logic is vital to the success of many contracts. Some veterans call it "negative logic" because it is based on what somebody did not do. It is applied on occasion to practically every kind of situation, including the reading of leads. Sometimes, for instance, the fact that a player did not lead a certain suit, or a certain card, indicates something about his holding in either that suit or another one, consequently something about the partner's hand.

With the courage of his conviction, North then laid down the Heart A to the second trick. When the K fell, his contract was assured. He timed his play so that he discarded a diamond on the club J, so lost tricks to only the club Q, diamond A and spade K.

South certainly seemed to be stretching 'em a bit with that leap to 4-Hearts, but he had a good reason for it. With only two spades, he was afraid the opponents would have so many cards in the suit that they might bid and make a game in it. His fears were well founded, for several kinds of play might produce a game for East-West in spades.

Junior Girls Reserve Entertain Mothers

Laura Watson Is Installed As President

Girls of the Junior Reserve of Circleville high school delightfully entertained their mothers and a few guests at a party in the social room at the high school, Thursday evening.

Spring flowers with red roses predominating were used to decorate the room and the tables at which the guests were seated. 75 members, their mothers and guests were present when Miss Shirley Blake as president of the club welcomed the mothers to which her mother, Mrs. Vernon Blake responded.

Light refreshments were served and a program was enjoyed. Miss Jean McCain gave a piano solo and Miss Patricia Metzger read an original poem "A Girl Reserve's Mother" written by Mrs. Marvin Kneese, mother of Virginia and Jean McCain. Miss Charlotte Thomas rendered a vocal solo which completed the program.

Installation of officers for the next year was next held and those installed were Laura Watson, president, Edna Maynard, vice president, Patricia Quince, secretary, and Patricia Quince, treasurer. Following the installation, Thurman Miller delighted the assembly with his "Magic Show."

Awards for honorary work during the past year were presented to Joanne Rader, Laura Watson, and Shirley Blake by Mrs. Paul Brown, club advisor.

Outgoing officers are Shirley Blake, president, Joanne Hawke, vice president, June Lanman, secretary, Rebecca Skinner, treasurer.

Hostess To Club

Mrs. Homer Wright was hostess to the members of the Three T club at her home, Saltcreek township, Thursday when she entertained with a bridge luncheon at 1 p. m.

Finds Daughter

IN THE RUINS of Leipzig, Germany, Maj. Arnold W. Samuels, above, 44, Columbus, O., found his daughter to make a story stranger than fiction. The major, who served a decade as reading clerk for the Ohio House of Representatives, requested front line duty in an endeavor to find his daughter, Elaine Marilyn, who at the age of three was taken by his wife to Germany. The major had not seen the girl since 1928, but in captured Leipzig the two had a reunion with the blessing of the Army, for the major was granted a seven-day leave for the occasion. (International)

DOG EATING RED POINTS PUTS BITE ON WOMAN

Last week, Mrs. Ed Lane gave the dinner scraps to her dog, Rusty, and settled down with the paper. But not for long. There on the food page it said that housewives throw away thousands of red points because they did not save meat trimmings and plate scraps!

Now Mrs. Lane saves all fat scraps to be melted down and added to the salvage can. That way she gets more extra red points. Rusty is doing nicely on a leaner diet. He was too fat, anyway. And our country is getting more of the used fat it urgently needs for war- and home-front essentials.

RICHARDS TEAM EDGES JAYCEES

Implement Outfit Scores 5-4 Win In Debut In Night Circuit

Richards Implement team made its debut in the night softball league Thursday night with a 5-4 victory over Junior Chamber of Commerce at Ted Lewis park.

The winners took an early lead, scoring twice in the first half of the initial inning. Jaycees came back to tie it up but Richards counted two more in the second and added the fifth run in the fifth. Jaycees managed to get one run in the fourth. A last half of the seventh rally fell one short of tying the score.

Richards got 12 hits, including two doubles and a triple, but could not use them to advantage after the first two frames. Jaycees got only four hits off Bob Young.

No game is scheduled Friday night and regular league play will resume Monday.

BREWERS MOVE OUT IN FRONT IN ASSOCIATION

By United Press
Milwaukee forged into first place in the American Association today by a narrow 5 to 4 win over the Columbus Red Birds in yesterday's only circuit contest.

The Brewers scored five runs on only eight hits, coming from behind to score twice in the last half of the eighth inning. Home-town boy Owen Sheetz, who held the Red Birds scoreless in the crucial ninth inning, was given credit for the victory.

The weatherman washed out all the other games in the Association. Tiding the closest first-place contenders, Louisville and Indianapolis.

Today's games: Columbus at Milwaukee, Toledo at Kansas City (night), Indianapolis at St. Paul (night), and Louisville at Minneapolis (night).

GIANTS' BILL VOISELLE, NO. 1 HURLER IN N. L.

Bill Voiselle, ace of Giants

On firing line

Bill Voiselle, the 6' 4" hurling star of the New York Giants, is on his way to another 20-game winning season. He's won eight straight already and the season is only six weeks old. The Greenwood, S. C., right-hander won 21 games last season for the fifth-place Giants. In the minors he was anything but a star, his best record being 10 wins in any one season. Voiselle broke into pro baseball with the Moultrie club and moved from there to Canton, Scranton, Rocky Mount, Greensboro, Oklahoma City and Jersey City before coming to the Giants.

SOX HITTER

By Jack Sords

TONY'S NIGHTLY BAT IS KEEPING HIMSELF AND THE SOX AT DIZZY HEIGHTS IN THE AMERICAN LEAGUE

He is needed. Relief Pitcher Les Mueller was hammered for four runs in the next inning and Philadelphia won, 7 to 2, although the game was played under protest because the A's batted out of order in the second and Umpire Eddie Rommel ruled the side retired with only two out. Both managers protested.

The Cleveland Indians put over a 10th inning run on doubles by Pat Seery and Jim McDonnell to beat the Senators in a night game at Washington, 1 to 0. Steve Gromek shaded Roger Wolf for his fifth victory.

The usually light-hitting Bud Metheny made a double and two singles to account for three runs as the Yankees topped the leading Chicago White Sox at New York for the second day in a row, 6 to 3. Atley Donald was stingy with men at bat, leaving 11 stranded as he scattered 11 hits for his third win.

The Red Sox, led by Rookie Ben Steiner and Leon Culberson, beat the St. Louis Browns at Boston for the second day, winning 8 to 6, with a 14-hit attack on three pitchers. Steiner hit a two-run homer and three singles to drive in three runs and Culberson got a homer and a single.

In the National, Pinch Hitter Danny Gardella hit a two-run homer in the eighth to give the New York Giants a 7 to 6 victory over the Reds at Cincinnati. The Reds knocked out Bill Voiselle, leading major league pitcher, seeking his ninth win, in the second inning. Ace Adams, the "old reliable", gained credit for the victory. The Reds are the only team in the league Voiselle never has beaten.

Dick Barrett of the Philadelphia Phils ended the three-game winning streak of the Cubs at Chicago, 6 to 3, beating veteran Paul Derringer with a five-hit pitching job. The major damage of Barrett was home runs by Andy Pafko and Harry Lowrey.

A homer by John Barrett in the 11th gave the Pirates a 10 to 9 edge over the Braves at Pittsburgh, their second straight extra inning win against Boston. The Pirates used 20 men, ending the game with Shortstop Frankie Gustine catching.

Charley Barrett, who came to the Cards yesterday in a trade for Morton Cooper, got off to a winning start with his new owners, beating the Brooklyn Dodgers, 7 to 5, with plenty of hitting support. The Cards, in winning their sixth game in seven starts, made 12 hits, including a two-run homer by Elvin (Buster) Adams. Augie Galan homered for Brooklyn. Fred (Dixie) Walker, major league batting champion for the Dodgers, was benched for not hitting.

PRICE OF DEER HUNTING HIKE BY LEGISLATURE

COLUMBUS, May 25 — It will cost Ohio nimrods at least $6 to hunt deer next season before they even get started.

The house yesterday passed a senate-approved bill to require deer hunters to obtain a special $5 license in addition to the regular $1 hunting and trapping permit.

The bill, which was passed 93-4, now needs only the governor's signature to become law.

ASHVILLE TEAM WINS PICKAWAY SOFTBALL TITLE

Perry Township Edged 2-0 In Final Game Of County Tourney

Ashville Friday added the trophy emblematic of the softball championship of Pickaway county to the various awards won by the champion basketball team.

Ashville copped the final game of the softball tournament Thursday evening in Ted Lewis park, beating Perry township 2-0 in one of the best games of the tourney.

The only two runs of the game came in the second inning when Perry "blew up" momentarily. Errors and infield taps accounted for the runs.

Both Bill Hobbie, pitching for Perry, and Bill Speakman, hurling for Ashville, pitched ball worthy of a shutout. Speakman's support was stronger and he won.

Perry boys threatened twice but each time Ashville stopped them before any damage was done.

Following the game Dan McClain, member of the park commission acting for County Superintendent George D. McDowell, presented trophies to the two teams. Bill Hobbie, captain of the second place team, received the runner-up trophy. The championship trophy was presented to "Red" Wilson, representing the Ashville team.

Lineups for the teams: Ashville—Irvin cf, Thomas ss, Messick 2b, Wilson c, Gregg 3b, Hudson 1b, Pettibone pf, Deal rf, Hoover lf, Speakman p; Perry—Donohoe cf, Gerhardt c, E. Buck lf, B. Hobbie p, D. Drake ss, J. Drake 3b, Williams cf, J. Hobbie 1b, Mills rf, D. Buck 2b.

Umpires were Robinson and White.

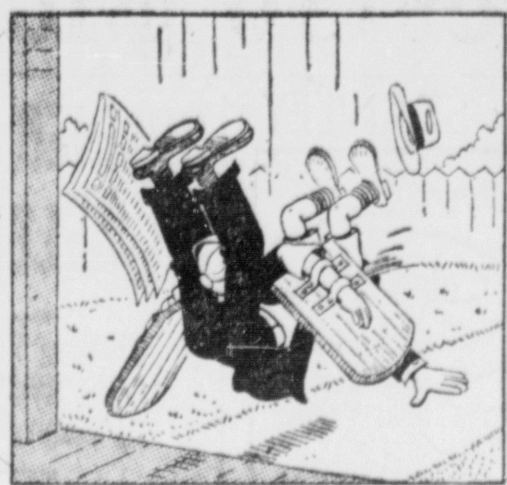

TRACK, TENNIS, GOLF MEETS ON AT COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, May 25—Preliminary rounds of the state scholastic track, golf and tennis championships opened today at Ohio State university under the direction of Ohio High School Commissioner H. W. Emswiler.

Championships will be decided in the three Spring sports tomorrow afternoon, while the state baseball title will be decided next weekend. District champions and runners-up qualified for state tournament play last weekend.

GALICCO ON "OPINION" SHOW
Questions from servicemen are answered on "Opinion Requested" Sunday by a panel of consisting of two regular members, Mrs. Charles Pioletti and Stanley Frank, and two guests, Brian Aherne and Paul Gallico. Aim of this provocative, timely program is to synchronize the attitudes of soldier and civilian.

GILDY IS TRYING TO KEEP UP
Keeping up with the Bullards—the family across the street—has Throckmorton P. Gildersleeve stepping lively on the Sunday chapter of "The Great Gildersleeve." Hal Peary stars as the chucklesome Gildy. Louise Erickson is niece Marjorie, and Walter Tetley plays nephew Leroy. The script is by John Whedon and Sam Moore. Music is under the direction of Claude about high time the freezers were unfrozen.

ORGANIST IS TIBBETT SUB
Ethel Smith makes magic on the organ for the fourth and final week of a series on "Your Hit Parade," Saturday. Lawrence Tibbett returns as singing star of the program the following week after concluding a concert tour on the West Coast. Joan Edwards, Mark Warnow and the Orchestra, and the Lyn Murray "Hit Parade" chorus have been continuing without a break.

RADIO NEWS NOTES
Alice Frost, the high-heeled snoop of "Mr. and Mrs. North," is keeping busy these days by doing lots for tots. Alice, whose forebears were Swedish, is trying her hand at writing a children's book containing modern versions of old Scandinavian fairy tales. She's also slated to give Fall dramatic lessons to the underprivileged children of New York's Greenwich Settlement House.

Milo Boulton, em cee of "We, the People," Sunday program of a nation at war, keeps among his souvenirs of guests an unusual photograph which was given to him by Dixie Kiefer, skipper of the "Fighting Lady." The picture shows Captain Kiefer and two other four-strippers, each wounded in one arm, all autographing each other's plaster casts.

Dick Leibert, who supplies the original music for Columbia's "Two on a Clue," is the proud owner of a 41-foot racing sloop. He's preparing to race her this Summer at Westport, Conn.

"Love's Bright Horizon," beautiful theme for "Bright Horizon," has so won the hearts of the radio audience that requests are still coming in for copies of the song.

Jack White Glad To Be Home After 10 Months In Nazi Prison

B-17 GUNNER HAS DISTASTE FOR NAZI SOUP

Food Was Anything But Good
Circleville Man States;
Praises Red Cross

T/Sgt. Jack White, 224 North Scioto street, gunner on a B-17, is glad to be home on a 60-day furlough. He had been a prisoner of war in Germany from June 21, 1944 until his liberation by the British Second Army April 16, 1945.

Sgt. White was shot down in Poland about 60 miles from Warsaw. He bailed out of his plane with the other members of the crew. The pilot was the only member of the crew that they are uncertain about. Whether he got out alright or not the crew members do not know. After they landed they gave their parachutes to the Poles (so the Germans could not have them) before Nazi soldiers captured the crew.

When liberated they were stationed at Stalag II-B. They had marched there from another camp 800 kilometers (about 500 miles) away in 56 days. Sgt. White said that they grieved considerably about the march because they were in the Air Corps, not the Infantry.

On the march he said that they would notice Allied pilots line up over the marching column and zoom low over their heads. They would wave their hands, towels or anything else they had on them in the march so the pilots would not mistake the column of marching men. The pilot would identify them as war prisoners and wag his wings and fly away. Pilots were instructed to make sure that they did not fire upon their own men, he said, and they were pretty careful not to do so.

Sgt. White had nothing but praise to extend about the work of the Red Cross. "The Red Cross, he said, has done a really marvelous job." They have moved heaven and earth to see that the prisoner of war packages got to the prisoners. They even got permission to bring them in, by their own trucks, to P. W. camps from Switzerland. Most of the time they averaged about one package to every two men, some of the time each man had one to himself.

They did not seriously suffer from any cigarette shortage. They got about two and a half packages a week. Some of the men did not smoke so they used their allotment of cigarettes instead of money in card games. Towards the end of their confinement they started to receive cartons of cigarettes from home, then there were plenty.

He did not have any favorable comment to make about the German camp personnel nor the food they served. They had an abundance of cabbage soup. Any amount of cabbage soup is an abundance to Sgt. White. He thought it was pretty vile. They also had a heavy, hard to digest brand of German dark bread. It caused the men who ate it considerable distress from the resultant gas attacks that followed the eating of it.

He told of the German pilot who told them that he had personally been on bombing missions over New York and Chicago. The sergeant said that the man spoke as if he meant it in all sincerity. But it hardly seemed credible that a man who had the training necessary to be a pilot would be so foolish. But they did not believe him.

Their greatest fear was that they would be shot by a firing squad. It seemed that there were always rumors about that the Germans planned to liquidate the prisoners from time to time. They knew that the German civilians cared less, because of the propaganda, for the Air Corps than any of the other branches of the service. It had been rumored that frequently the German civilians would kill downed air corpsmen. The German civilians had been told by the propagandists that the American airmen were all American gangsters and were only in the Air Corps because of the money they were paid. They also believed that the Allied airmen were instructed to bomb non-military targets.

They also had to fear attacks from their own men. The P. W. camps were clearly marked so they could be seen in the daytime. But there was no way that a P. W. camp could be told from anything else at night. They had to follow

47TH ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT HELD AT SCIOTO

Scioto Township high school's 47th annual commencement exercises were held in the school auditorium Thursday evening for the 13 members of the 1945 senior class.

Dr. Richard C. Norberg, Columbus minister, presented an address entitled "Stars At Your Finger Tips." Music for the program was presented by the Scioto band and the girls' glee club. The Rev. H. D. Fudge, pastor, Ashville Lutheran church, gave the invocation.

Geraldine Whiteside presented the class salutatory and Margaret Haughn made the valedictory.

A. A. White presented the class and the awards. George D. McDowell, county school superintendent, presented the diplomas to W. Jay Goldhardt, president; Geraldine Whiteside, vice president; Bonnie I. Davis, secretary; Margaret Burgher, Jack Roese, Betty Ann Burgett, Stella E. Davis, Margaret M. Haughn, Eileen L. Furniss, Rose Helen Henrich, Omar McClain, Norine Strobel and Carl Williams.

blackout regulations and be very careful.

Their quarters were kept in very good condition. They used to clean them frequently. They had lice only after their long march. They got the lice from sleeping in barns and other unsanitary places. But they had facilities for bathing and they tried to keep themselves clean. Mainly because they knew that they would be the ones that would suffer if they did not.

The Germans seemed to have a bad habit of always leaving the prisoners somewhere in a box car when there was a raid on in the vicinity. He said it was a wonder that there were not more of them killed because of it.

He wonders how many of the Germans will be salvageable human beings. They have been ruthless about almost everything. A German boy does not have any respect for the family. The Fuehrer was everything to them. They had more respect for their youth leader than they had for their parents. It was good, he said, to attend the Rotary meeting Thursday and see four boys give talks on farming. He doubts that the German boys could talk on anything but Nazi militarism.

Sgt. White said it is sure good to be home. He says that the war is not over. "Our war is still to be fought," he said. I do not care particularly to go to the Pacific, but I guess if I have to go I will get along alright." He hopes that they can get the Pacific war over with in a big hurry.

When he was on his way home he was released from Camp Atterbury. There was a WAC officer who asked him if he knew Willard Bumgarner. Bumgarner had gone through Atterbury the day before White. The WAC's name is Phyllis Selby. She knew of Circleville because she was a friend of the Barnharts. She remembered that Bumgarner had passed through the camp the day before White did because he was also from Circleville.

Sgt. White has three brothers that are still in service and one who has been discharged. Cpl. Kenneth White is in the CBI theatre of war. Monte White is still in Germany, he was with an Artillery company, a flak gunner. Sgt. Leo White is in the Air Corps, stationed at Myrtle Beach, South Carolina. Tom White was with the Seabees and has been discharged.

CHAPLAIN SENDS MORE DETAILS OF SGT. HULSE

More details about their son, who is reported missing in action, and comforting words have been received by Mr. and Mrs. George Hulse, Route 2, Circleville, from the chaplain of the group to which he was attached.

The chaplain, Capt. Richard P. Chambers, 9th Bomb Group, states that T/Sgt. Frederick E. Hulse was on a night flight over Japan when his ship was reported missing. His letter is as follows: "You have by this time, I am sure been informed by the War Dept. and by his Commanding Officer that T/Sgt. Frederick E. Hulse has been reported 'missing in action' while flying a mission at night over the Empire of Japan on April 15, 1945. The entire crew are missing with him. On the mission in which Sgt. Hulse and the others of his crew are missing they went out along with many others of our air crews and apparently arrived at the target they set out for but no word or information has been heard from them since. Naturally we do not give up hope that they may be surviving, possibly prisoners of war. But to be frankly realistic, the probabilities of survival are not too favorable.

"Although Sgt. Hulse and the members of his crew were comparatively new comers in our Ninth Group they have already proved themselves worthy of the high esteem in which they are held. Sgt. Hulse is respected for his technical knowledge and ability in his position on the crew and for his courage and generous willingness to pull his share of the load and more. He is loved for his genial friendliness and good nature. His courage and loyalty to duty is exemplary of the finest American traditions.

"The Army and Government agencies have an orderly way of taking care of things in such cases and I trust you will be contacted by them in due time in all matters. If I can be of help to you in any way, even the smallest, please write. It would be an honor to be able to do something for Sgt. Hulse's loved ones.

"Our beloved Country and the cause of freedom thruout the world is deeply indebted to all who have risked their lives that our Country may remain free and a blessing to other people. God give us the grace to continue in the right until Tyranny is crushed and a better order is established among men and nations so that the risks and sacrifices such as Sgt. Hulse is making may not be in vain.

"Please extend to others of his loved ones the import of this letter. 'May the Father of mercies and the God of all comforts' (11 Corinthians 1:3) comfort you all, now and forevermore.

Sincerely,
Richard P. Chambers, Chaplain.
(Capt.)
9th Bomb Group."

SOLDIER TELLS OF CELEBRATION

Pfc. George Iles Says Paris Staged 'Real' Observance Of Victory In Europe

The Paris celebration of Victory in Europe is the subject of an interesting letter received by Mrs. Talmer Wise, from her brother, Pfc. George Iles, who is attached to the 108th Hospital group. He wrote that the city of Paris had been in a state of real celebration all week. The letter was written May 14.

The Parisians would cluster about the Americans and shout "Vive la Americans," he wrote. The GI in Paris was really king all week. It was almost impossible for Army equipment to move down the streets. Army planes, B-26's, P-51's, 47's and 39 fighters were flying under the Eiffel Tower. For three days the planes of all nations were scraping the tree tops on the Champs des Elyses, the street the Triumphal Arch is on.

"Most of the fellows here took it rather calmly," he wrote. "We have the CBI staring us in the face. We know there is a lot of war to be fought there yet."

He told that their hospital unit has handled close to 50,000 patients. They have the finest doctors from Chicago in their unit. "We have a record we are proud of. Knowing this and realizing that the war is still being fought in the Pacific we feel that our unit's skill has a lot to do before we can call it a day and go back home. I have not fired a gun yet, but I feel my work here in the hospital has been of some use in bringing about V-E Day in Europe."

He told Mrs. Wise that he enjoyed getting the home town papers. Yank and Stars and Stripes are good, he wrote, but the home town papers are more interesting. He closed the letter saying that it was time to "hit the sack."

Mrs. Wise's other brother, Pfc. Charles D. Iles, is with Terry Allen's "Timberwolves" in Germany where the Yanks and Russians met.

Pfc. Charles Iles address is (ASN 35086407) Co. M. 415th Infantry, APO 104, c/o Postmaster, New York, N. Y.

Pfc. George Iles address is (ASN 35219878) 108th General Hospital, APO 887, c/o Postmaster, New York, N. Y.
